IT is six years since the Group of Seven held their first public exhibition of paintings and announced in the foreword of their catalogue that Canadian Art was taking the road and risking all for the glory of a great adventure. The present show finds them still on the road and still adventuring.

The work this year as in the past, has been inspired solely by Canadian materials. Six years ago the Group's principal sketching ground was the back-woods of Northern Ontario. In this year's Exhibition work will be found inspired by the Rocky Mountains, the north shore of Lake Superior and Lake Huron, French Quebec, and old as well as new Ontario.

The Group of Seven realize that subject is not necessarily an ingredient of a work of art. Nevertheless it also feels that Canadian environment is the most potent stimulus to Canadian creative genius. Even though an artist may not necessarily look for the support of approval from his people, it is from them that he must draw his inspiration.

As in previous Exhibitions, there are a number of invited contributions by young artists, whose work shows individual qualities.

PAINTINGS, SCULPTURE
AND WOOD CARVINGS
OF FRENCH CANADA

THE ART GALLERY OF TORONTO
GRANGE PARK

QUEBEC is the cradle of Canadian Art. As early as 1669 Mgr. de Laval founded a school of art at St. Joachim, below Quebec, and here were trained the early wood-carvers, builders and painters who established a tradition which for over two hundred years has been enriching Quebec with various forms of creative art.

The beautiful old types of house architecture are giving way to bungalows and other nondescript forms. Imported bronzes and coloured plaster-casts of saints and angels have ended the one-time virile school of wood-carvers. The handicrafts, rug-making and weaving, which possessed a wealth of decorative design, are only kept alive through the efforts of art societies and a few connoisseurs.

Painting, as an Art, was, in the earlier days, less native to the country than sculpture, architecture and the handicrafts, artists being mostly employed as church decorators, or having to repeat old accepted conventions. During the last forty years, Quebec has produced a vigorous school of painters, who have ably interpreted their environment, and the life of the people.

This collection has been chosen with a view of showing various forms of Art, typical of the Province of Quebec; and the thanks of the Gallery is cordially extended to all those who, on very short notice, have so kindly contributed to the Exhibition.
